SURREY CHARITY RECOGNISED IN NATIONAL AWARDS

A nationwide initiative encouraging families to use text messaging as a safety tool is one of the pioneering projects selected for the shortlist of a national award scheme that identifies and promotes the many tangible benefits obtained from the use of Information and Communication Technologies (ICT).

The Teach UR Mum 2TXT project from charity Milly's Fund is just one of the 118 entries received and one of the 21 projects short-listed in the 2004 UK eWell-Being Awards developed by SustainIT and sponsored by BT, Vodafone and Brother with The Guardian as national media partner. The awards aim to uncover exciting new projects that use ICT to deliver environmental and/or social benefits.

This commendable project was entered in the Wireless category that focuses on projects that deliver societal benefits through the use of wireless technology and is sponsored by Vodafone.

This project demonstrates how mobile phones can be used effectively as a safety tool to provide an unobtrusive sense of security to parents and children. Organised in conjunction with O2, the campaign has reached over 30 million people and encourages children to text their parents with information including their whereabouts and taxi details.

Said SustainIT Programme Manager Simon Hills: "Once again, the entries highlight how organisations use ICT creatively to provide tangible environmental and social benefits".

BT has supported the eWell-Being Awards programme since its inception in 2002. Mike Hughes, BT Head of Environment and CSR Campaign, said: "In 2004 the standard of the entries was again exceptionally high, and we are eager to champion those organisations that are leading the way".

Winning projects will be announced at an awards ceremony at 30 St. Mary Axe, London (affectionately referred to as 'The Gherkin'), on Monday 14th March 2005.

For more information on the Awards, or if you would like to attend the awards ceremony please contact Simon Hills or Richard Craven, SustainIT on 01733 312286 or shills@ukceed.org.
